Dartmouth Graduate Wins Rhodes Scholarship

POSTED ON NOVEMBER 21, 2010 BY LATARSHA GATLIN

Gabrielle Emanuel '10 of Evanston, Ill., was awarded the prestigious Rhodes Scholarship on November 20.

The Rhodes Scholarship is the oldest and best known award for international study and widely considered the highest post-graduate academic award available to American college graduates. The scholarship pays all expenses for two or three years of study at the University of Oxford in England. Emanuel is the seventy-third Dartmouth graduate to receive a Rhodes Scholarship.

Emanuel plans to pursue a DPhil in development studies to examine the

Dartmouth Junior Emma Smith Wins Truman Scholarship

POSTED ON MARCH 30, 2012 BY KELLY SUNDBERG SEAMAN

Emma Smith, a member of the Dartmouth Class of 2013, has been chosen as a 2012 Harry S. Truman Scholar. The scholarship awards up to $30,000 to college juniors to pursue graduate studies in public service fields and also provides assistance with career counseling, internship placement, graduate school admissions, and professional development.

Smith is a history and geography double major from Paola, Kan. She is also an enrolled member of the Osage Nation. The Truman Scholarship will enable her to pursue a Master of Laws in Human Rights, Conflict, and Justice at the University of London directly after graduating from Dartmouth. "Language study, including Arabic, will also factor into my degree," she says. "Afterwards, I'll be equipped to enter into on-the-ground work in conflict areas like Sudan and South Sudan. I want to
